Thank you for considering a gift to help support Mayo Clinic’s world-class research and compassionate care. We appreciate your confidence in what we do and your desire to help make a difference in the lives of our patients and their families. But we’d also like to make sure you benefit from making a gift to Mayo Clinic.

How does this happen? You may be surprised to learn that many gift types offer significant financial and tax benefits.

YOU HAVE OPTIONS

You are familiar with outright gifts, such as cash or a check, which you make today and we can use right away. But sometimes an immediate gift isn’t the best option, especially if you feel unsure about giving up assets today that you and your loved ones might need in the future.

A planned gift is a perfect solution to this problem. There are many different types of planned gifts, and each offers unique advantages. Some planned gifts are revocable — a gift in your will or living trust, for example — so you can change your mind at any time.

Or, they can be irrevocable — just as outright gifts are — so that you benefit from an income tax deduction if you itemize.

Irrevocable planned gifts are attractive because they are deferred. You part with an asset today, but the actual giving of the asset to us is put off for a while — often until after your lifetime (and that of a surviving beneficiary, if you wish). Until that time, you enjoy the benefits from the gift.

For example, with a charitable remainder trust, you receive lifetime income from the asset after it’s placed in a trust, and then we receive the remainder of the trust after your lifetime. Another giving strategy is to deed us a remainder interest in your home, while retaining the right to live in it for life.

The key feature of planned gifts like these is that they provide important benefits to you as well as Mayo Clinic.
